

Series 1500: Motorway Communications

1 TV Monitoring to Motorways, Other Roads and Temporary Diversions for IVaffic

Work which requires either temporary or permanent TV monitoring to motorways or other roads and which will by its nature be Contract-specific, should be billed in accordance with the various Series of the Method of Measurement and the overall principles of the Method of Measurement. For TV monitoring in connection with works of a temporary nature such as traffic diversions a separate item within Series 100 should be billed rather than extending the item coverage for traffic diversions, or traffic safety and management. The Method of Measurement for these items should be prepared by the compiler in accordance with the General Principles of MMRW In the case of permanent works, new bill items should be raised following the principles of Series 1500 and other relevant Series.

2 Location of Cables

Attention is drawn to the note for guidance on Series 1400.

3 Application to Non-Motorway Schemes

Where non-motorway schemes involve elements of communications equipment then the rules in this Series may still be used, however the title and references to "Motorway Communications" should be amended to "Communications". This should be achieved by a general note at the start of Amendments to Chapter IV
